University of Groningen

University of Groningen is a research university with a global outlook, deeply rooted in Groningen, City of Talent. The school is an internationally oriented university with a rich academic tradition.

Since the establishment in 1614, the university has brought forward striving academics, like the first female student, the first Dutch astronaut and various Nobel prize winners. Quality has had top priority for four hundred years, and with success.

University of Groningen has one of the largest international student communities in the Netherlands. 30,000 students are enrolled in Groningen and 6,000 are international students from over 120 different nationalities. The university offers over 45 world-class Bachelor's programmes and 160 highly ranked Master's programmes.
