University of Houston

The University of Houston, founded in 1927, has a primary campus in Houston and two instructional sites in Sugar land and Katy. It is a public research institution with 16 academic colleges and interdisciplinary Honors College.

The university educates almost 50,000 students each year on both online and campus courses, of which there are about 300. The school is home to world-class teaching, revolutionary research, one of the most important collections of public art by any university in the United States and nationally recognized students - all working together to create a globally competitive educational environment.

The campus life offers the vibe of a small community set amongst the urban offerings of Houston. Their on-campus offerings include restaurants, art exhibits, activity centers, live performances and athletic events which make the university much more than a place to learn.
